Women In Ministry - About Us

The mission of the Second Episcopal District Women In Ministry (WIM) is to meet the spiritual, physical, and emotional needs of women in ministry. WIM is designed to encourage women to grow in their faith in Christ, to develop and strengthen intimate friendships with other women, and to provide opportunities to serve and reach our community for Christ.

We are clergy women of all ages and socioeconomic backgrounds who hold a variety of gifts, talents and skills. We both cherish and work to be advocates on behalf of all women clergy, the young and the not as young! We seek to share the incredible strengths and resources found in the African Methodist Episcopal Church, so that we may be better, wiser and stronger in carrying out God's ministry and mission in the world.

This call involves a commitment to train, develop, inspire and to instill within clergy women (local, itinerant, evangelist, exhorter, etc.) the desire to fulfill their potential in life, with a sense of dignity, determination and destiny.

The Role and Purpose of SEDWIM

1. Model and share best practices in communication, programming, and leadership.
2. Represent and build support for each other.
3. Foster spiritual growth and renewal among women.
4. Build support among women in ministry that encourages bonds of sisterhood and the creative exchange of ideas and information.
5. Mentor and encourage the younger WIM to reach their potential in Christ.
6. Find ways and means to challenge each woman to use her gifts to compliment the talents of other women, as we work side by side to further the mission, vision and goals of the SEDWIM.

"A new command I give you, that you love one another. Even as I have loved you, you must love one another. By this the world will know that you are my disciples, if you love one another."

John 13:34-35

'HERSTORY' OF WOMEN IN MINISTRY IN AFRICAN METHODISM

Excerpts from Reverend Sandra E. H. Smith Blair

(Associate Minister, St. Paul African Methodist Episcopal Church, Berkeley, CA Past President, Connectional A.M.E. Women In Ministry)

Although the Second Great Awakening in the mid-19th century created greater opportunities for women to be involved in worship, social norms and Biblical injunctions were generally used in antebellum society to justify the exclusion of women from public roles or offices in Protestant churches.

In the late 19th century, women began moving into new arenas of lay leadership in home and foreign missions, as well as religious education; but barriers to ordained ministry remained. Denominations with free-church polity and religious groups of a more charismatic nature were more amenable, than the more hierarchical churches, to permitting new forms of female leadership.

Antoinette L. Brown became the first American woman to be fully admitted to the Christian ministry, when she was ordained in 1853 to serve the Congregational Church at South Butler, New York. Anna Howard Shaw was the first Methodist woman to be ordained. After being denied ordination by the Methodist Episcopal Church Conference in 1880, she was ordained in the Methodist Protestant Church, but was so disillusioned, until she did not remain active in the church. It was not until 1924 that the Methodist Episcopal Church began granting women ordination as local preachers.

Among the African Methodist denominations, the African Methodist Episcopal Zion (AMEZ) Church was the first to ordain a woman. Julia A.J. Foote was ordained a deacon in the New York Conference in 1894, and an elder in 1900. Mary J. Small was ordained a deacon in the Philadelphia/Baltimore Conference in 1895 and an elder in 1898. The AME and CME Churches did not begin to ordain women until the mid 20th century.

Women with callings to ministry emerged soon after the inception of the African Methodist Episcopal Church (AMEC) in 1787. Jarena Lee, the first preaching woman, was allowed by Richard Allen to preach and was licensed, but was refused ordination. Additional women included Sophie Murray and Elizabeth Cole of Bethel AMEC, Baltimore, MD; Rachel Evans of New Jersey; Harriet Felson Taylor of Union Bethel AMEC in Washington, DC.

Both women and men sought to persuade the church to recognize the call of women to the preaching ministry. The following actions would follow:

- An 1844 petition to the General Conference to license women was rejected.
- In 1848, the Daughters of Zion Women's Society petitioned the General Conference and faced opposition, led by Bishop Daniel Payne.
- In 1852, Bishop Paul Quinn tried unsuccessfully to get a resolution approved to license women.
- In 1864, the General Conference let a resolution to license women die.
- In 1885, Bishop Henry McNeal Turner ordained Sarah A. Hughes, a deacon in the North Carolina Conference; but this was overturned by the 1888 General Conference.

Not until 1888 did the AMEC General Conference approve the licensing of women as local preachers. However, it prohibited them from being assigned, and defined their role as evangelists.

The AMEC began ordaining women as local deacons in 1948 and local elders in 1956; but not until 1960 were women ordained to itinerant orders. Reverend Gertrude Bryant of Louisville, KY, in the 13th Episcopal District, who was ordained in 1956 into her 80's, carried around with her a 1952 Discipline which read, "Women are included in the provisions for the ordination of local deacon. In no case shall they (women) be given itinerant relationship."

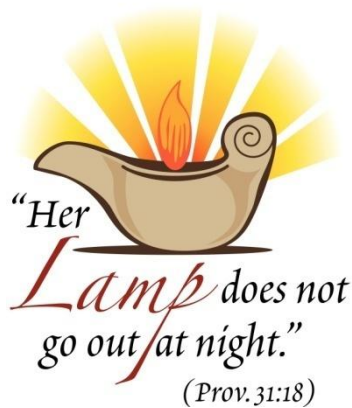

In the late 19th century the African Methodist Churches established the first official position for women with the creation of the office of Stewardess for women to assist the Pastor and male Stewards and Class Leaders in certain capacities, as well as to attend to females in the church. This was done by the AMEC in 1868.

The revival of the Early Church order of Deaconess created an additional arena of lay service for Protestant women. In 1900, the AME General Conference set up the office of Deaconess as a position of special status for women to perform full-time church and charitable work.

Women also served as Exhorters, Missionaries, and Evangelists. In 1878, the Women's Parent Mite Missionary Society was organized, and in 1896, the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society was established. However, these were structural alternatives to ordination that kept women in a subordinate role, subject to strict male control and authority. This did not allow for full inclusion and equity in the leadership of the church. Some women left the church to join denominations that accepted their calling. For example, Rebecca Cox Jackson joined the Shakers.

Though women today are ordained for the diaconate and elder's orders and comprise approximately 20% of the clergy across the Connection, we still experience opposition, denial of our gifts for ministry, and questioning of the validity of our calling.

Female pastors have demonstrated their capability for church building and church growth. However, most women are assigned to small to medium size churches. Location at a church that pays a smaller budget excludes women from certain positions such as preaching or leading worships at some events, membership on the finance committee, election as General Conference delegates/alternates, membership on the General Board and major commissions.

“Still I Rise”

By Reverend Jamila J. Woods-Jones
Pastor, Cornerstone AME Church of LaPlata, MD
3rd Vice President, SEDWIM

On Tuesday, July 12, 2000, history truly became “herstory,” when the Reverend Vashti Murphy McKenzie was elected, and later consecrated, the first female Bishop in the 213-year history of the African Methodist Episcopal (AME) Church. Bishop McKenzie’s historic victory occurred during the 46th Quadrennial session of the AME General Conference. “Because of God’s favor, the stained glass ceiling has been pierced and broken,” McKenzie exclaimed. As she announced her acceptance of this esteemed position within the church, McKenzie spoke of the women who forged the way for her and others to succeed in ministry. She reminded the audience of women, who led the way in the quest to become bishops for decades, as those who “sacrificed, cried, died, and gave their very best.” Bishop McKenzie currently serves as Presiding Prelate of the 13th Episcopal District.

On July 5, 2004, the Reverend Carolyn Tyler Guidry proved once more, that women in ministry are continuing to break new ground. She was elected and consecrated the 122nd Bishop, and the second female Bishop in the history of the AME church, during the 47th Quadrennial session of the General Conference. In 1989, Reverend Tyler was assigned to Walker Temple AME Church in Los Angeles, California. This assignment gave her the distinction of being the first female appointed to a major metropolitan charge in the AME Church. In 1994, she was the first female appointed Presiding Elder in the 5th Episcopal District of the AME Church. She is a contributor to the fourth edition of Those Preaching Women, by The Reverend Dr. Ella Mitchell (released June, 2004). Bishop Guidry currently serves as Presiding Prelate of the 8th Episcopal District.

The Reverend Sarah Frances Davis is the 126th elected and consecrated Bishop of the AME Church. Her historic election on July 6, 2004, makes her only the third woman in the 218-year history of the denomination to ascend to its highest level of Episcopal service in African Methodism. Bishop Davis currently serves as the Presiding Prelate of the 16th Episcopal District. Bishop Davis was unanimously elected to the office of Chair of the Global Development Council (GDC) of the AME Church (2009-2011). In 1997, Bishop Sarah became the first woman in the Connectional A.M.E. Church to be appointed Chair of a Board of Examiners, serving the 10TH Episcopal District (State of Texas). Ebony Magazine named Bishop Sarah as one of the 50 Most Intriguing Persons of 2004.
